Pistol Halts Snowball Tossers—Angered after being pelted by many snowballs, a young motorist stands beside his auto in Knoxville, Tenn., and holds a large group of University of Tennessee students at bay with a pistol (in his right hand). Police Capt. Elmer Dyke said the pistol-wielder dared anyone to throw another missile, but no one did. An amateur photographer, who stood in a group facing the armed man, made the picture.

British Stand Pat on Pound Despite Franc Devaluation

LONDON, Jan. 26 (AP)—Sir Stafford Cripps declared today Britain does not contemplate devaluing the pound despite French action in cutting the value of the franc. "We do not believe that this will be rendered necessary or advisable," the Chancellor of the Exchequer told Commons. Earlier government securities had dipped on the stock exchange, reflecting investors' fears that France's action will damage the pound sterling.

SPURNS REJECTIONS

France had overridden objections of both Britain and the International Monetary Fund in revaluing her money. The devaluation gave French manufacturers a chance to cut their prices as much as one-half in world markets and consequently threatened British markets abroad.

Sir Stafford did not disclose what steps would be taken to protect the pound.

Consultations are continuing with the French, he disclosed.

"In any action that we are compelled to take," he declared, "we shall, of course, exercise the greatest care not to add to the difficulties of our French friends more than might prove absolutely inevitable."

Sir Stafford pointed out that Britain is responsible to the whole of the sterling area for measures to be taken.

"We must, therefore, maintain our freedom to take any action which may be found necessary," he asserted.

MILLIONS WIPE OUT

LONDON papers, reporting the pound in jeopardy, said the break in government bonds wiped out millions of pounds in market values. Market sources attributed this break to lack of demand rather than general liquidation.

Any lowering of the pound's value would mean that Britain would have to put up more pounds for purchases abroad. That would imperil the Labor government's entire recovery program. It sought vainly last week to have France temper her devaluation.

Prime Minister Attlee was received by King George VI. There was no immediate indication of the purpose of the visit.

MIAMI TRAIN DERAILED

TRENTON, Mich., Jan. 26 (AP)—The last two cars of the New York Central's Detroit-to-Miami "Sunbeam Special" train left the tracks here about midnight Sunday but 25 passengers escaped unhurt. NYC blamed a broken rail for the accident.

Stricken Thomas Nears Cristobal

ABOARD SS. ANCON, Jan. 26 (AP)—Rep. J. Parnell Thomas (R.) of New Jersey, chairman of the House committee on un-American activities, is more than holding his own after an acute attack of gastro-intestinal hemorrhage.

The Ancon's master, Capt. David H. Swanson, radioed Panama Canal authorities to have an ambulance in readiness when the ship reaches Cristobal today. The ship at that time was 500 miles at sea. The captain later sent a message requesting Canal Zone authorities to dispatch a plane with six sets of blood plasma.

The U. S. Air Force plane immediately was sent, locating the ship about 6:45 last evening.

After a run over the ship, the aircraft dropped its cargo, but two parachutes with the plasma landed a quarter of a mile astern and choppy seas prevented a pickup by the Ancon.

37 HURT IN ITALY RIOTS

ROME, Jan. 26 (AP)—Rome newspapers today reported 37 persons wounded in leftist political violence in two Italian towns.

Taft Backers Force Test On Stassen

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26 (AP)—The decision of Harold E. Stassen to take on Sen. Taft in the Ohio's home state in the May 4 primary to choose National Convention delegates found Taft supporters ready today to force an earlier test of sentiment for the Republican presidential nomination.

They disclosed plans to make an all-out race in Taft's behalf in the April 13 Nebraska free-for-all primary.

Taft himself was silent on the Nebraska development, but left no doubt that he welcomes the competition on his own grounds where, he insists, Stassen "has no chance for success."

The former Minnesota governor said in his week-end announcement that he has a high regard for Taft and would have preferred the test to come in some other state.

"But," Stassen added, "the differences between us on both foreign and domestic policy represent the major issues within the Republican party and before the country."

"It is important that the people have an opportunity to express their views upon these policies prior to the national convention next June."

Taft greeted Stassen's announcement with this comment:

"Of course, he has every legal right to enter the primary, but if a primary battleground must be chosen, I am delighted he has selected Ohio, where he has no chance of success."

Along with his announcement that he will enter the Ohio race, the Minnesotan said he will not "consent to the filing" of a slate of delegates in New York in opposition to Gov. Dewey.

Showdown Battle On Tax Cut Opens

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26 (AP)—Republican leaders said today they expect to whip their $6,300,000,000 tax cutting bill to House passage with "substantial" Democratic help and the loss of no more than three GOP votes.

However, some of them look for the House to fail on the first test to roll up the two to one margin needed to enact legislation over a presidential veto.

Before any balloting begins in the House, the ways and means committee has to do some preliminary voting to get the bill to the floor for debate. Committee members were rounded up to start the showdown today.

RIVAL LEADERS AGREE

Chairman Knutson (R.) of Minnesota, author of the bill, predicted it would be approved "as is" by the committee late today or tomorrow.

Debate is slated to get under way in the House Thursday and a vote is ticketed for next Monday.

Republican and Democratic leadership were in agreement that the vote on passage will not reach two-thirds proportions.

A top GOP official sized up the prospects this way:

"We will lose two or three Republican votes at the most. We'll get a substantial vote from the Democrats but I don't think we'll get two-thirds and we aren't trying for it."

"We aren't retreating an inch from plans to pass the bill over a veto. But it doesn't count to get two-thirds now. We'll get it when it does count."

MacArthur Statement Seen As Presidential Race Hint

TOKYO, Jan. 26 (AP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur said today he would stay in Japan until his task is completed, unless called away by some "extraordinary occurrence."

The supreme commander of Allied powers in Japan repeated, on his 68th birthday, what he said last year—he wants to return to the United States when his job here is done.

Hale, hearty and erect, MacArthur in an exclusive interview did not explain what he meant by "extraordinary occurrence." Nor did he mention efforts in the United States to enter his name as a Republican candidate for the presidency.

There was no reference to a statement broadcast by Columnist Walter Winchell in the U. S. Sunday night that MacArthur would return to America March 15, about Massachusetts, who rounds up party votes as Democratic whip, also predicted there would be no two-thirds vote next Monday. But his reason was different:

"The Republicans would try for two thirds if they could get it. But they know they can't, because they won't get enough Democratic votes."

The entire Democratic membership of the House meets Wednesday to lay out party strategy on the touchy tax issue.

It Happens--- Every 4th Year

HOUSTON, Tex., Jan. 26 (AP)—A five-point platform accompanied 84-year-old C. C. Cunningham's announcement that he is an independent candidate for President of the United States.

The platform includes:

- 1—Reduction of 75 per cent in federal employees.
- 2—Annual tax of $10 on "all persons who sell their services," and all bachelors over 25.
- 3—Annual tax of $10 on "all politicians . . . except Congressmen."
- 4—Legalized gambling, horse racing and a national lottery.
- 5—Tax exemption of all incomes under $5000, and reduction of the rate when income reaches $100,000.

two weeks before the Wisconsin primary.

MacArthur's office, when asked about Winchell's report, said the general had no plans to go home.

MacArthur's faith in the Japanese remains as constant and as firm as his handshake. He indicated a firm belief in the righteousness of his course in Japan.

The five-star general observed his birthday just as he observed Christmas, Thanksgiving and the Fourth of July—by working the same schedule which keeps him in his office overlooking the Imperial Palace grounds up to eight hours daily.

Little Amputee's Spirits Soar at Talk of New Leg

HYANNIS, Jan. 26—The greatest crisis and sorrow of her life came to Janet L. Brock, 7, today, but she was still able to smile. And that smile convinced doctors at Cape Cod Hospital Janet will fight her way back to health and a busy life even with her left leg amputated.

For two weeks, Janet had complained to nurses of pains in her left foot.

Since the operation, her parents, Rev. and Mrs. Robert H. Brock of the Centerville Congregational Church, have kept up the pretense that some day she would walk out of the hospital entirely healed.

When the clergyman and his wife arrived at the hospital for their Sunday visit it was decided the child was well enough physically to face her battle with herself.

So her parents told her she had lost the leg. Janet cried helplessly.

Then her mother told her what the doctors had said about the wonderful new artificial legs, how she would be able to run and play, and even dance, on this "new leg." These assurances brought a smile back to her pale face.

Then she made her parents promise to keep it a secret when they drove back to Centerville, "so nobody will know about it."

Janet was still afraid people would be pitying her.

But Janet was smiling and cheerful today when doctors talked it over with her.

She recalled, too, that Aleppo Temple Shriners at a meeting in Boston two weeks ago voted to send her a gift of encouragement.

And she remembered all the Centerville people who had offered blood for her a few weeks ago when her life was in the balance.

Janet was hurt Dec. 7. She had gone to Sunday school and then wandered into a nearby cemetery.

A huge headline, its foundation weakened, toppled and pinned the child's leg beneath it.

DENIES STUDIO RIFT—Starlet Linda Christian, whose name has been romantically linked with actor Tyrone Power, denied today that she was suspended by her film studio. "I was unhappy," she told reporters. "The studio understood and gave me my release."

Jilted Youth Faces Girl Kidnap Charge

MERRILL, Mich., Jan. 26 (AP)—A 20-year-old spurned suitor accused of breaking into his ex-fiancee's home and abducting her on a 300-mile car ride before she talked him out of driving her farther was held in Saginaw County jail today.

Assistant prosecutor Henry Naegeley said he would seek warrants charging the youth, William Mayers, with kidnapping and breaking and entering.

Pretty, quick-thinking Joan Pelouquin, 17, was returned safely to her parents' home here 16 hours after sheriff's officers said she was forced by Mayers to leave with him as she dressed for a date with another man.

Mayers, whose engagement to the girl was broken off a year ago, was arrested as he drove toward nearby Saginaw to give himself up after dropping Miss Pelouquin off at her home.

Officers credited the slim beauty operator with talking Mayers out of his intent of abducting her to Chicago.

Instead, they reported, she convinced him of his folly, took over the wheel of the car, and turned the vehicle back towards home as they reached Three Rivers. While the frightened girl was doing this, hundreds of officers in Michigan and adjoining states were searching for the pair.

Saginaw County Sheriff William Munroe gave this account of the week-end events:

Mayers, who had spirited Joan away for six hours last summer but had not been prosecuted for it, came to the Pelouquin house Saturday evening. Joan was preparing for a date with Robert Bigelow, 23.

Turned away, Mayers broke into the house and chased Joan into the bathroom. When she girl locked herself in he split open the door and chased her outside.

Bigelow came along as Joan ran into the snow in her stocking feet. He saw Mayers holding his hand in his overcoat pocket as if carrying a pistol, though investigation showed he had no gun.

The spurned suitor, he reported, said, "I've come here prepared to kill somebody and I will, because I'll be sent up anyway."

Forcing Joan to pack a suitcase, he then drove away with her.

A graduate of the Martin Grammar School and Mechanic Arts High School he was well-known throughout New England as a semi-professional baseball player. He had been with the telephone company for 40 years.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Grace K. Hickey; a daughter, Mrs. Charles W. French, of Oradell, N. J.; a son, John B. Hickey, Jr., of Scituate, a staff member of the Boston American, and three grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Cabby Returns Senorita's Lost Handbag, $800 and All

Attractive Carmen G. Prieto Arguello, 23, daughter of Chief Justice Arturo Arguello of the El Salvador Supreme Court, today was extolling the honesty of an Arlington taxi driver who found and returned her handbag containing $800 in cash and checks, her passport and return plane ticket.

The girl, staying at the home of her brother-in-law, Dr. Hector Silva of Alpine st., Cambridge, who is El Salvador consul here, hired the cab of James G. Keith, 48, of Harlow st., Arlington, to take her from Harvard sq. to the Alpine st. address.

After two hours during which the girl made frantic search for her handbag but could not remember where she had left it, Keith found it on the floor of his cab.

"I did considerable driving and had several other fares before I noticed the black alligator handbag lying on the floor where she apparently dropped it," he later explained.

Then, recalling where he had driven the girl, Keith made the long return trip through snow-rutted streets to the home of Dr. Silva.

N. H. Cafe Man Missing on Hub Visit to Girl

State and local police, at the request of New Hampshire authorities, today were searching for Boston for James Contogogou, 25, Navy veteran and cafe proprietor of Keene, N. H., missing since early Saturday when he left for Boston to visit his fiancée, a nurse at a West Roxbury hospital.

The nurse, Miss Genevieve Litis, 22, telephoned his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John F. Contogogou, of his non-arrival and they immediately notified Keene and New Hampshire State Police.

His parents, who fear he may have met with foul play, reported he had more than $100 in his possession when he left Keene in his 1931 black LaSalle coupe.

Police were informed that Contogogou, who owns the Jack's Snack cafe in Main st., Keene, closed up the place at 3:30 a. m. Saturday. The temperature there at the time was 20 below zero.

Officials were further informed that Miss Litis had arrived at East Boston airport last Thursday from Wheeling, W. Va. James met her and drove her to the home of his brother Costas, in Harvard st., Cambridge.

Friday morning he drove to the hospital in West Roxbury and made a date to see her again Saturday.

After driving back to Keene Friday afternoon he asked another brother, Gregg, to manage the cafe while he returned to Boston.

He is described as 5 feet 7 inches tall, and was wearing a camel-hair coat, brown corduroy jacket, blue pencil-striped trousers and white shirt. He has a T-shaped scar on his left hand.

U. S. Due to Protest Red Arrest of Officers

VIENNA, Jan. 26 (AP)—An American legation spokesman here described as "ridiculous and nonsensical" today Russian assertions that two U. S. officers were guilty of "improper conduct" when arrested last week in Papa, Hungary.

The officers were military attaches of the American legation in Budapest, Lt. Col. Bernard Thelen and Major J. Kopsak. They were seized Jan. 14, held incommunicado and released in Vienna the next day. An official protest probably will be made from Washington to Moscow.

A geyser more than 20 feet high gushed thousands of gallons of water into the air, and police closed off Armory st. for a stretch of more than a half-mile between Atherton and Centre sts.

Repair crews were stymied in efforts to halt the flow from the hydrant, which is fed by four separate inlets. To shut off each inlet a small metal plate must be located under several feet of snow and ice and a gate closed.

Several large business establishments, including the Holzer Cabot firm and the Clearwater Laundry Co., were also affected. Workmen declared the pressure was so low that no water would be available above the ground floor of apartment blocks and frame dwellings until after repairs were made.

A miniature flood poured down Armory st., confined to the middle of the thoroughfare by huge snow banks on each side. The snow piles prevented the water from reaching gutters and catch basins and it froze into a miniature pond.

A similar mishap occurred in Chestnut st., West Newton, where water cascaded down a hill toward the railroad station. House owners along the path hastily piled up snow embankments to keep the stream from entering their basements.

LONDON, Jan. 26 (AP)—Bridge Birch, a beer-drinking Friesian cow, is the world's biggest milk producer, her owner says.

R. A. Pierson, of Moortown Farm, Ringwood, said that on a diet including a half gallon of stout a day, Bridge Birch gave 41,952 pounds of milk for 329 days ended last night. Pierson said the record for 365 days, held by an American Holstein Friesian, was 41,943.

Heart-on-Right Baby Gets Serum

MANCHESTER, N. H., Jan. 26
—Physicians at Sacred Heart Hospital here today, anxiously awaited the reaction of a rare serum, rushed over snow-covered highways from Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston by police of two states, in an effort to save the life of 3-month-old John Ordway, whose heart is on the right side of his body.

The baby's parents brought him to the hospital 12 days ago, suffering from a respiratory ailment, but observation disclosed the heart condition, from which an intestinal infection developed. An emergency call for potassium-ion solution, a new serum, was received at the Boston hospital and was relayed to the local hospital by Massachusetts and New Hampshire state police.

Following an injection of the serum, doctors said that if the child survives the intestinal ailment, an operation will be performed to correct the position of the heart.

Hats off to a thoughtful couple

they've never found fault with their party line neighbors their neighbors don't find fault with them

They have hosts of friends, and they keep closely in touch with their children — and their grandchildren.

Naturally they use the telephone a lot. But they're on a party line and they know the secret of good party line service. Keeping calls as brief as possible, allowing a little time between calls in a series, answering the telephone promptly when it rings — when people practice such little courtesies as these, the chances are they'll be returned, and party line service will be good service for every one.

To serve more people

Party lines are enabling us to give service to the largest possible number of people who now want telephones. But we're making headway on our program to provide added central office facilities in New England, and the time is coming when every one here who prefers individual service can have it.

Truck Strike Pickets Face Court in N. H.

While the truck drivers' strike continued stalemated on its 26th day, six pickets of Local 25 were scheduled to appear in court at Manchester, N. H., today, as defendants in an injunction petition brought by the H. P. Welch Trucking Co., which charges pickets are interfering with business.

The case, regarded as a legal test of picketing rights of striking workers, was denounced by Pres. James V. Hurst of Local 25 as a move by the trucking firm "calculated to get rid of the picket line."

Atty. Frank Doherty, counsel for the union, said the court case was "a test of the right of free speech guaranteed by the Constitution."

Negotiations between union officials and representatives of trucking firms will be resumed tomorrow at 11 a. m.

Meanwhile, three other major strike threats darkened the labor horizon.

A conference between Eastern Gas & Fuel Associates and CIO Gas, Coke and Chemical Workers was set for 2:30 this afternoon at which efforts will be made to settle a wage dispute involving 1000 workers at the Everett plant of the Eastern Gas Co.

The CIO Textile Workers' Union was expecting a reply today from American Woolen Co. on its demand for a 20-cent hourly wage boost. A favorable reply would avert a threatened strike of 90,000 textile workers in New England and Atlantic Coast mills.

Local 186, AFL Cooks and Pastry Cooks Ass'n, received permission from the international union for a strike in Boston hotels, a spokesman for the union said today. The cooks demand a 40-hour week. Another negotiation meeting is scheduled for tomorrow at 2:30 p. m.

Acts AT ONCE to Relieve and 'Loosen'

CROUPY NIGHT COUGHING

(CAUSED BY COLDS)

Mothers are delighted the way the first spoonfuls of PERTUSSIN often bring prompt relief from such croupy coughing.

And PERTUSSIN is so pleasant and safe for kiddies. It's entirely free from chloroform, creosote and narcotics. No wonder so many Doctors prescribed it for years for bad coughs due to colds.

PERTUSSIN acts at once. It not only relieves coughing but it actually 'loosens up' tickling phlegm and makes it easier to 'raise'. Also mighty effective for adults.

Detective Bonner Rites Wednesday

While the entire Boston police force and a host of friends today mourned the sudden death of Detective William J. Bonner, 58, of Bellevue st., West Roxbury, funeral services were set for Wednesday, with requiem mass at St. Theresa's Church at 9 a. m. The well-known officer, whose outstanding detective work won him a score of commendations, died of a heart attack while visiting at the bedside of his ill sister in a West Roxbury rest home. He had been especially attentive to his sister, who suffered a shock last November.

He is survived also by his wife, Helen Agnes, and four children: William C., Mary Helen, Thomas E., and John J., all of West Roxbury.

Use of Atom for Power Seen in Distant Future

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Jan. 26 (INS)—Cong. Price (D.) of Illinois said use of atomic energy for power is in the "far distant future."

Rep. Price is a member of the joint congressional committee on atomic energy. Speaking to a radio audience, he said progress is being made toward medical, agricultural, research, and other civilian uses for the atom, but years of hard scientific work must precede its application to power.

This English-born immigrant, tall and small, but with a twinkle still in her dimming eyes, is one woman not ashamed to admit she's the oldest person in Pennsylvania and state medical society records is back her up.

"Come in and get warm by the fire," was her cheery greeting as she sat in a rocking chair. A large birthday cake was on a table. Pink lettering told this message:

"I am contented here," she sighs, "although I would like to see Yorkshire again."

267 Pupils Draw Walkout Penalty

CHARLESTON, Pa., Jan. 26 (AP)—Principal D. L. Giunt of Charlestown High School said he had decided to detain 267 students after school hours for the next 30 days because the students staged a half-day walkout. He explained it this way:

The school basketball team defeated Monaca, a keen rival, and was given a half-holiday. A demonstration of students followed, and 267 of the nearly 800 in the school "took matters into their own hands and walked out."

"They didn't give us a chance to even offer them a holiday," Giunt said. "Now we're treating them as plain truants, and truants get punished for 30 days here."

Death Overtakes Pastor Preaching Against Time

BRIDGEPORT, Ct., Jan. 26 (AP)—Rev. Alexander Allison, 74, who on last Sept. 7 told his congregation at the First Presbyterian Church here that he was suffering from an inoperable cancer and would not be with them much longer, is dead.

He preached his last Christmas sermon Dec. 21 before one of the largest congregations in the church's history after serving 31 years as pastor.

Judge Is Lenient To Ex-War Bride

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 26 (AP)—Norma Phoe, 20, divorced New Zealand war bride, yet for her native land with a prison cell just a bad memory.

Jail loomed for the pretty girl after she pleaded guilty to the attempted holdup of a woman rooming house proprietor with a toy pistol.

But Judge George Parry waxed sympathetic and gave Norma a suspended sentence in return for a promise that she would return to New Zealand.

Friendly Enemy Act of Nazi U-Boat Skipper Is Rewarded

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 26 (AP)—Konstantin Flink, skipper of American cargo vessels during the war, is sending a food package to Germany to repay a wartime favor of a Nazi submarine commander.

Capt. Flink, of nearby Costa Mesa, is sending the package to Helmut Witte, now a metal worker at Bonn.

The American commanded the cargo ship Star of Scotland on its last voyage. The trip ended 1000 miles off South Africa on Nov. 13, 1942, when a Nazi sub shelled and sank the vessel.

Flink stayed behind to destroy valuable papers while his inexperienced 16-man crew escaped in a lifeboat. The sub, commanded by Capt. Witte, picked up Flink and took the lifeboat and the crew in tow.

Realizing the green crew could never make land without their skipper, Witte released Flink after the American promised never to command another ship against Germany. The U-boat commander also gave his prisoners food and water for the trip.

Flink kept his promise after the lifeboat brought them to safety in Portuguese Angola 18 days later. He never again commanded a ship against Germany.

Even such promises did not include Japan and he took over another merchant cargo ship carrying supplies to the Pacific.

Several days ago Flink received a letter. "It was from the former sub officer and son."

"Do you recall that although my orders were to take you prisoner, for the sake of your men I allowed you to go free and we shook hands, saying that after the war we may be friends?"

"I shake your hand with this letter and tell you that there is so little fond here and it is difficult to care for my wife and two children. Perhaps you could remember our friendship pledge."

Said Flink: "War is over and there were all kinds of men in it. He was a sailor."

Dimes Donations Urged As Weather Slows Fund

The annual March of Dimes campaign to fight polio will end on Friday and officials of the Suffolk County Chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis reported today that collections are lagging behind last year's figures. Bad weather was blamed.

Bp. Sherill Urges Lenten Prayers

Episcopalians were urged today by Rt. Rev. Henry Knox Sherill, their presiding bishop, to join in a corporate communion on the first Sunday in Lent, Feb. 15, and to use the entire Lenten season for public worship, prayer and study.

He declared: "The world situation is greatly and rightly in the minds of us all. We are living in the valley of decision. I think of what the Christian church has meant to others in times of strain and stress, and I pray that today through the clear witness of the church, Christ may rule the purposes of men."

"I request, as a minimum, regular attendance in church every Sunday in Lent, reading of the Bible with quiet prayer for 15 minutes daily, and a determined effort to be Christ's disciple in every aspect of life."

N. E. Leader Believes Public Roused to Vivisection Evils

Public sentiment is growing in favor of proposed legislation to outlaw vivisection, George R. Farnum, president of the New England Anti-Vivisection Society, declared today.

He stated that of all the persisting evils in the modern world, no form is more cowardly and debasing than the cruelty inflicted on the animals in the schools and experimental laboratories. He labeled vivisection "a dark blot on civilization."

The society, with headquarters in Beacon st., is sponsoring a bill in the Legislature to outlaw the use of cats and dogs for vivisection, with punishment to include fines, imprisonment or both.

MEDICAL OPPOSITION

Opposed to them is the Massachusetts Committee for Medical Research, which is sponsoring a bill of its own to obtain possession of cats and dogs from public pounds for "scientific investigation, experiment and instruction."

Both bills, together with several other regulatory bills concerning vivisection, will be given a public hearing before the legal affairs committee of the Legislature on Feb. 24, at the State House.

In urging all-out support of his bill and defeat of the so-called Pound Bill, Farnum said, "No one who knows anything about the practice of vivisection can deny that it involves suffering of the most excruciating kind."

ADMIT CRUELITIES

"Confronted with the revolting cruelties of vivisection, medical scientists usually fall back on the discovery of its prevention and cure. Yet after long years it is admitted that no real progress has been made. If anything has been proved, it is the utter futility of all this shocking cruelty."

Referring to the State House hearings next month, he said:

"We are powerfully supported by increasing public interest in seeking the passage of our own bill. This is a fundamental bill, calling for complete abolition of vivisection."

"We are sparing no effort to defeat the Pound bill which is, of course, in utter opposition to all humane consideration for helpless animals. We realize fully that in the Commonwealth the vivisectionists are formidable opponents. We do not under-rate them."

$9000 Home Cost Double '39 Figure

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26 (AP)—The selling price of the average new house reached $9000 last November—more than double the price of $4140 in 1939, a Commerce Department report said today.

The department earlier had predicted construction costs would be higher this year.

While the selling price of the house rose 104 per cent between 1939 and November, 1947, costs of lumber increased 183 per cent, said the report.

Test Tube Decay Of Tooth Studied

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 26 (AP)—Two dental researchers reported today they had succeeded in producing decay of a tooth in a test tube, and that results may help solve the mystery of this most widespread human disease.

The experimenters said the decay organisms grew and attacked the tooth in a solution that contained only traces of sugar or starch, and in a slightly alkaline rather than acid environment.

This runs counter to scientific belief that tooth decay organisms do their most damaging work in the presence of acid formed by the breakdown of sugar or starch in the diet.

The report was made by Dr. Harry E. Friisbie and Dr. James Nickolls, of the University of California College of dentistry.

It Can't Happen Again—This first prize picture in the Hearst Photograph Contest in 1946 drew thousands and thousands of letters from all over the country from persons who appreciated the scene of a little boy getting his puppy back.

This will never happen again in Massachusetts if Senate Bill No. 264 becomes law.

Instead of being in his young master's arms, the puppy will be in a vivisection laboratory.

Instead of feeling his young master's caresses, the puppy will be cringing under the vivisectioner's scalpel.

And, as is often the practice, there will probably be windows in his bleeding sides, from which chunks of flesh have been hacked out.

Senate Bill No. 264 is the cruelest legislation ever offered on Beacon Hill.

It undertakes to place the Commonwealth and its several cities and towns in the business of collecting the people's lost, strayed and stolen pets for unspeakably brutal experimentation.

It was written in utter defiance of all evidence that such experimentation is not only worthless but dangerously sadistic.

For contemptuous disregard of the millions of persons who love their pets, Senate Bill No. 264 is without parallel and precedent.

22 The Swiss System Has Proved Its Worth

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN, MONDAY, JAN. 26, 1948

THERE IS A GRAVE prospect, and of course a very great danger, that Congress will again fail to act on the Universal Military Training measures now before it, despite the overwhelming approval of these measures throughout the country and the nearly unanimous approval among the nation's war veterans.

This is undoubtedly due, as Mr. William Randolph Hearst has suggested in his letter to Mr. R. T. Van Ettisch, managing editor of the Los Angeles Examiner, to the failure of the supporters of Universal Military Training, including the veterans, to stress the example and especially the system of Switzerland in this vital matter.

"The Swiss System is practically perfect," Mr. Hearst wrote, "and has proved its value through the years of peace it has brought to Switzerland in the midst of war-torn Europe."

The trouble with the current effort to induce Congress to establish an American system of Universal Military Training, and with all such efforts in the past, has been the lack of emphasis upon the rich fund of experience Switzerland has accumulated in this aspect of national defense and security and upon the great advantage which would accrue to America through emulation of that experience.

There have been TOO MANY conflicting and confusing proposals for an American program of Universal Military Training.

SOME OF THESE proposals have advocated excessive periods of training which would unnecessarily disrupt the educational and vocational careers of youthful Americans, and others have gone to the opposite extreme of advocating ineffective terms and methods of training which would produce nothing of military value to the country and would thus waste both the money of the country and the time of our young men.

In short, there has been so much disagreement as to term and method of training that there has been consequent bewilderment in Congress, or at least the pretense of it—and this has created a perfect excuse for the continuing policy of procrastination which Congress has pursued in dealing with the subject, and apparently is still pursuing.

In contrast, the Swiss System of Universal Military Training has been in SUCCESSFUL operation over a long period of time, during which time two great World Wars have embroiled nearly all the rest of Europe, and it has been the primary factor in preserving the PEACE of Switzerland throughout that troublous time.

If the United States had established the Swiss System of Universal Military Training in this country after the First World War, we would have had a trained military reserve of EIGHTEEN MILLION MEN at the outbreak of the Second World War, and with a defense establishment of that power and scope America would unquestionably have KEPT OUT of the conflict and been spared the subsequent and incalculable loss of lives and wealth.

The United States could just as simply and surely KEEP OUT OF FUTURE WARS by the same sensible, and inexpensive and democratic device.

WHY DOES NOT Congress ADOPT the Swiss System, now that a new war so imminently and disastrously threatens us?

Why do not the war veterans of the United States, who so earnestly and patriotically endorse Universal Military Training, ADVOCATE adoption of the Swiss System and INSIST upon its adoption?

Why do not the American people as a whole, who have indicated their overwhelming APPROVAL of Universal Military Training in every survey of public opinion undertaken in the last thirty years, not merely express their will to Congress in support of the Swiss System but COMMAND AND OBTAIN OBSERVANCE OF THEIR WILL?

The Swiss System of Universal Military Training is BEST for the United States.

life's sweet grace;
And if we meet but for a moment's space,
Your touch, your word, sets all

—SOPHIE JEWETT

AN OFFICE receptionist of long experience says she has noted good salesmen not only know how to sell the product they are handling but have an unusual ability in selling themselves to women. She adds: "A good looking salesman, intent on getting into the good graces of a woman, is practically irresistible." Very interesting. I have instructed our Horses & Women department to thoroughly check this angle. Perhaps we will be able to start a file headed: "How to sell yourself to a beautiful blonde in five easy lessons."

HOLLYWOOD BRAWLERS: If ring fighters were matched as the opponents in those Hollywood nightclub brawls, our Joe Louis would be fighting a 50-year-old man about the size of Willie Pep. A man who starts a fight in a night club is rarely sincere about it. He knows before the brawl makes much progress it will be stopped. If these night spot pests had any courage they would settle their differences as the ballplayers Ty Cobb and "Buck" Herzog once did. Ty and Buck had a heated argument in a hotel lobby. Herzog said: "Let's go up to my room, lock the door and fight this thing out." Ty agreed. Incidentally, Ty knocked Herzog flatter than a pressed sardine.

Ty Cobb

ASKING: Queries from clients. Q—Van Gogh, currently one of the most popular painters among art students, sold only one painting during his lifetime. What was it? A—An extremely flattered by your query even if slightly baffled by it. I believe the painting referred to is Berceuse, which depicts a Zouave, but I would not bet a stogie on it. My favorite Van Gogh is "The Restaurant in Montmartre," which painting I saw in the Luxembourg, Paris.

WHO'S WHAT: Mossie Sherman, bookmaker and football pool man from London is around town. Mossie handles $400,000 in football pool bets weekly. Also a huge amount of horse wagers. In England all off track betting is done on credit. You write the bookie a letter stating your bet but enclosing no money. If money is enclosed it is illegal wagering. If you win the bookie sends you a check; if you lose he sends you a bill. It works out all right over there. The average Englishman considers being a welcher almost as bad as being a murderer.

SECRETARIES: The National Secretaries Ass'n, an organization of executives' girl Fridays of which Irene Gadelman of Tulsa, Okla., is president, continues to flourish. Has over 20,000 members in the U. S. A. Among the campaigns conducted by the N. S. A. to advance and protect the interests of secretaries is one directed against the use of the term "office wife." This, the secretaries say, has a tendency to antagonize the real wives of executives.

MULES & MEN: "I am torn between two wonderful men. Can't decide which one to marry. What'll I do?" That is an excerpt from a letter to our Mules and Men department from a young woman of Manhattan. No matter which man this subscriber marries there will be many occasions on which she will wish she had married the other one. A dead heat between seekers of a lady's heart and hand is usually very hard on the lady. There will be no play talked. The Phantom Rivalry based on this situation. Remember it?

ASIDES: One of my favorite vaudeville acts of the yesterday was the protean actor, You know: a sketch in which one man plays all the parts... Now a New Jersey beauty queen has assumed the nickname "Candy." Her name is "Candy" Montfort. "Candy" Jones, the model, is reported annoyed. This nickname was originally bestowed on males. As for example, "Candy" La Chance, Brooklyn first baseman.

THINGS SEEN: Saw a young couple pause on the corner of 57th St. and Fifth ave., Manhattan, while the young woman straightened the man's necktie. That indicated the girl was either married to the man or wants to marry him. It's an unflattering sign. Keep this in mind, young fellow. When a girl straightens your necktie she not only has more than the ordinary regard for you, but has matrimony in her heart.

PASSING BY: Deleespe Morrison, thirty-five-year-old mayor of New Orleans. Quite young for a mayor of a large municipality. Still John Purroy Mitchell was around 35 when mayor of New York city and he was one of the best mayors the big town ever had.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Copyright, 1945, by King Features Syndicate

ELEANOR ROOSEVELT'S belated discovery that the government of Russia is hostile to the United States, and her mention of "war" in this connection seem to justify the final disappearance of this tenacious old politician from our public life.

Not even her late husband was more guilty of deceiving the Americans as to the true character of the ruling gang of the Soviet Union and promoting their ill-concealed intentions toward this nation.

Together, and with the help of their political and social parasites, they impeded the old Dies Committee in its earnest, if sometimes clumsy, efforts to denounce a wicked enemy among us.

By the abuse of Presidential prestige they were able, and delighted, to put the Committee in stocks where so many of their own friends belonged.

FROM THE BEGINNING of the New Deal, in the childhood of millions of contemporary voters, Mr. Roosevelt gave aid and comfort to persons and organizations in the Communist fronts of the arts under WPA and in the unions of the CIO.

An appointee of hers soon became head of the tin-cup wing of the drama where the American scene was never depicted in terms above moral scoundrelism, a homelike spiritual atmosphere for many of the Presidential set.

The queen took her knitting to the Congressional hearings when her protégé Joe Lash, was up for questioning and, with garish political ostentation, invited a batch of "liberals" for lunch.

THE TROUBLE with Eleanor the Great today is that her long record of past performance and association automatically discredits any effort she may make to pay herself in a position hostile to the Communists.

No person with even a smattering of the covetous lore of the royal family, including her own alert instinct for a dollar, would think of calling her a Communist.

Under Roosevelt, the White House was a plush layout, as they say in the argot of the F. B. I., whereas, since the Kansas City gentleman moved in with his crowd the old manse has fallen to the level of a sawdust joint.

This is a natural digression to explain that strange paradox, the capitalist who gladly acts as patron of the Communists in the noncommittal phases of the job which they have been doing on as but, himself, remains a staunch dollarist.

Quentin Reynolds is an excellent example, not that we need go outside the Roosevelt family for types.

Not in any one night or month did Mr. Reynolds earn his proud reputation as an artful fumbler in the presence of the bad news.

It is the reward of years of table-hopping, of a mode of disappearance as subtle as Oriental magic as the fellow came down the room with the check; of deep, dramatic anecdotes about the Corkery charwoman he knew when he was alone in London against the dirty Boche.

In that tense atmosphere, who would hang the table to interrupt and say, "Okay, Reynolds, but save it until you lift at least your corner and your girl's corner of this slab?" Not many.

FOR A LONG TIME it was smart to be Red, as Eugene Lyons wrote in a book on the subject. The White House was more Red than White and more partial socially, and certainly more congenial to the most licentious Broadway and Hollywood people than to Americans of standard morals.

With the White House standing on that side of the street, the movement naturally drew new artificial prestige and there were literally thousands of non-Communists who were pleased at the chance to pluck a finger-hold on Roosevelt's cape and set themselves forward as gallant fighters for a spurious cause vaguely called human rights.

Money always has been important in dealings with the Roosevelts and therefore it might be the easier way to detach the last one from the public payroll. Considering the boon, $25,000 a year would not be too much and from that we might deduct the amount we have to pay her now for doing whatever good, or harm, she does.

THE POINT to consider is her continuing capacity for mischief in any international klatsch. Anyone who didn't discover until now that the Russian rulers were hostile to us, alert to attack our weakness wherever it shows, simply has no competence to offer.

Anyone who took until June, 1945, as Mrs. R. did, to learn that the Communists among us were agents of the Kremlin and unerringly hateful, revealed a personal defect, not a political discovery.

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 26—If authorities do not put Jacqueline Horner under juvenile correction and see is returned to her mother's care, she has a starting role waiting for her in a Jeffrey Bernard motion picture.

Jacqueline Horner

When Horner telephoned me I immediately thought it was an attempt to cash in on some of the unfortunate publicity about the girl. He admitted it sounded like a bid for publicity but insists that two months ago Lou Kasser, an agent, brought the teenage beauty to him. "I thought she was a beautiful little girl with great talent, and even though we had no story for her, I assigned two studio writers to go to work and they came up with an original 'Till the Strange Fruit'." Now if the authorities will permit Jeffrey to make the movie, Jackie says the job is hers.

HAZEL BROOKS, most exotic and ruthless actress on the screen since Theda Bara, has just been given a new direction by Enterline. In her latest picture, "Sleep My Love," she is a very sexy looking girl but cooler than ice and only out for money.

Hazel will have a picture all her own, "Mary Had a Little," the play which Edmund Lowe took out on the road, has been purchased for her. It was produced by Al Rosen, one of the backers of "Goodnight Ladies," the Skeets Gallagher play which flopped.

By the way, why don't we see Skeels on the screen? For my money he's one of the best comedians on stage or screen.

LITTLE DID I THINK when Earl Blackwell introduced me to Gar Moore at the cocktail party Sherman Billingsley gave in my honor that the young man would come up in Hollywood as a David Selznick star.

But that's the way things are. Earl, who saw Moore in four Italian films, among them the excellent "Let's Live in Peace," signed him and brought him to America. He brought Gar to Selznick's attention, and it could be the lucky Selznick has another winner.

Gar, not to be confused with Gary Moore, is an American fox who comes from Tulsa. He speaks Italian like a native, and in his three-pictures-a-year contract, he has permission to make a foreign one, presumably in Italy.

TALKED TO LAMOUR Ray and she's going to be married in Santo Domingo. "Let's go there with the Brooklyn Dodgers," she said.

"and I think it would be very romantic and something to remember all our lives."

Leo goes to New York Feb. 2 to remain 10 days. He has to see Branch Hicks, head of the Dodgers, and make a speech at a sports dinner.

CHATTER IN HOLLYWOOD: The former Mrs. Herbert Marshall has a very serious romance. He's Michael Houston, a young Chicago business man whom she met in Palm Springs.

Houston has returned home to the Windy City, but he still telephones her every day. It would be nice if Leo, who was terribly broken up when she parted from Bart, could find somebody to make her happy. I don't believe her romance with Bob Walker has panned out too well.

MARTHA O'DRISCOLL, who married the rich Chicago Art Appleton months ago, is expecting a baby and says she is through with the movies.

Her friends are glad this second marriage has turned out so happy for her because her first matrimonial experience was anything but happy. She was two years obtaining her freedom from Com. Robert Adams in one of the longest drawn-out suits on Hollywood record.

I think it is amusing, however, that her new bridegroom is building her a California type house just outside of Chicago. So she won't get homesick, maybe.

I AM NOT in the least surprised that Burt Lancaster has bought himself a circus. He started out as a $3-a-week circus acrobat, and when I interviewed him he told me that one of these days he was going to buy a circus.

Well, he bought one last week in Louisiana, and paid $20,000 cash for the outfit. He'll operate it under the name of Lang and Cravat, with Dick Cravat his old partner.

Burt tells me he'll join the show for a few performances in the Spring. Can't you see Burt doing some of his old acrobatic number?

There's been a wave of villainous car trouble among our glamour girls. Margaret Sullivan is recuperating from an ear operation performed by the famous specialist, Dr. Lempert, in New York. I'm glad to say she is coming along in fine shape.

For years Barbara Stanwyck has been troubled with ear aches and has had several corrective treatments.

Now I hear Dorothy Lamour will reenter a local hospital soon for similar treatment. I had a letter from Alfred de Maigny, husband of Nancy Oakes, from Montreal. He feels he's had a very bad break since he was acquitted of the charge of murdering his father-in-law.

He says: "I have never wanted another child from my wife. All I asked of her is to help me obtain my residence in Canada, and this she could do with one stroke of the pen."

De Maigny compares his troubles to the Zola and Dreyfus case. Nancy is asking for an annulment from him on the grounds she was never his legal wife so that may be one of her reasons for not signing the paper.

HARRY DAVENPORT, the grand old man of the screen who is 82 years old and who has been an actor for 71 years, reports the birth of his first grandson. The baby was born to Mr. and Mrs. Ned Davenport about two weeks ago and was named for his granddaddy.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD collected at random: Charles Boyer, who continues to be very ill, has been taken to Good Samaritan Hospital. As I told you, he is suffering from beriberis.

The Sam Wanamaker baby will be born in Italy. Mrs. Wanamaker goes with Sam when he leaves in a few weeks to star in "Christ in Concrete."

Ronald Reagan and Patricia Neal were really having a good time at Slap's Maxie's, and dancing every dance.

John Talbot is romancing Eileen Howe, movie starlet. He is the gent who figured so prominently in newspapers when he was courting Lana Turner, and then went pill: after she left him for Bob Toping.

The girl with David Selznick and the Louis Jourdan at the opening of Le Papillon was Miss Le Beers, of the De Beers diamond fortune.

This is said Claire James, who lost her baby a few weeks ago, is a very sick girl and must undergo a long operation. In private life she is Miss Bill Gated.

Merle Oberon and Lucretia Ballard leave tomorrow for the premiere of "Night Song" in New York. Then they sail for England Feb. 4 for an extended vacation. Lucky people.

Mervyn Leroy and Kitty are young-looking bride and groom in Boca Raton, Fla., and say it almost as nice as California. Ernest Pascal, well-known writer, is getting married to a girl he has been with for a long time. His bride-to-be is Gertrude Berkowitz, a non-professional.

Dorothy Lamour's stepfather, I. O. Castleberry, is in Hollywood Hospital to undergo a serious major operation.

Victor Esser has just returned from New York and will file an immediate divorce action against Werner Gebauer, concert violinist.

Mr. Bobby Anderson of Beverly Hills, the former Ellen Ross and MGM actress, broke her ankle skiing at Sun Valley.

HUNK OF MARBLE: Here's a chance for some politician to fight for a cause. Excerpt from a letter: "There are 80-odd veterans in Massachusetts in the same physical condition as myself—quadruplegic—unable to use either arm or either leg."

Another excerpt: "I took my chances and this is what I got. Bad lung in bed day in and day out, with a dead body and active mind, in plain my day."

Another: "And having a beautiful, young wife and young son who should be learning how to box from his father, and all they have to look forward to is feeding and reading to a mumble hunk of humanity."

And: "Living in a home bought under the GI Bill of Rights with a mortgage that must be paid every month or else—makes a man wonder what is going to happen when he crosses the river." "With all that's being spent, why couldn't the government or the State give us a home free and clear with the years about the future taken from us? Or put up this GI mortgage. Think we're asking too much? Then he is in bed for only a week, unable even to hold a cigarette or hold a book, and he can't think." "The State handed us no more than the little guy who came home physically perfect."

Conclusion: "If after thinking this over you can't see it our way, then give us the vote!" "We don't want sympathy." "Signed: AGE 40. LIFE EXPECTATION NOLO."

BETWEEN DAY AND NIGHT: After 14 weeks at the Statler Terrace Room, Orchestra Garwood Van is off for the Buffalo Statler with the charming Kay. Delaying Old Man Winter, they're making the trip over Route 20 via Pennsylvania.

The fire lost at Sacred Heart Church, North Quincy, is more than twice as great if you figure it in replacement cost. The damage was so great and learned: a shortage of bassoon players is a big problem for the traveling musical shows. A few years ago the arrangements always called for at least five saxophones. Now it's 15 saxophones and obnoxious.

Well, with always ready to buy it out of kazoos. You'd think Billy Gilbert at the Shubert was going to do but make you know. But he's about ready to cut his own nose off. "Heaven help him," said a reviewer in a comedy. "A Red Called Murphy." Cappa O'Connell, currently among at March of Dimes headquarters, has a thrilling story room prospect, and is keeping her fingers crossed.

What next? The opera Aida is being rewritten for the theater—as a Civil War story.

SHAVINGS: Andrew Scott, the caterer, went snowed out at Wellesley the other day. But gets in this column because he went swimming at Miami Beach.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26—While in a weakened condition from virus germs and unable to summon my customary will power I let Miss Reid talk me into turning her loose on Capitol Hill for a few days.

I realize now it was all my fault in the first place. I should never have held onto those virus germs. I should have taken them over to the White House and shaken them off on Brig. Gen. Wallace H. Graham could rattle with them in between gambling on the grain market. The gallant general, when he is feeling full of beans or other products of the soil, can stare a perm in the face and scare it right out of the President's sanctum. Naturally he counts it first because he is a great germ-counter but after he has marked it "present" and reported same to Mr. Truman he takes a G. O. P. ultra-ray lamp and vetoes it.

But I missed the scheduled White House press conference and got stuck with my own germ. The next thing I knew Miss Reid was rocking the Capitol to its foundations.

IT SEEMED she set herself a peculiar itinerary. For some reason she stopped to admire a portrait of the late Sen. Morris Sheppard of Texas, father of the prohibition amendment, although I had never known her sympathies lay in that direction. While standing before the portrait a strange thing happened.

"A crowd of men and women came marching down the corridor," she reported, "led by a man with a big brass horn. They were singing 'Onward Christian Soldiers' at the top of their lungs."

"One of the quints, who hadn't been notified of any parade, yelled 'What the hell goes on here? I guess he should have been home in hospital in his long gown because all the men and women stopped singing and the guy with the horn stopped too."

"Well, it turned out the quint was in error and should have been promptly washed out with gin to, telling such a thing because it was a delegation from the WCTU making the annual pilgrimage to Sen. Sheppard's picture to hang a wreath on it."

"Shameful," I agreed. "I suppose the quint was highly mortified."

"He didn't look no," said the dizzy damsel. He just asked them if they wanted a permit to march, sing, and hang wreaths.

and when they said they had one from Capitol Architect Dave Long he let them proceed although he seemed to disapprove of the whole thing.

Probably a hint of evil habits," I said. "What did you see next?"

"Well, I went to the office of Rep. Leroy Gossard of California. He is a Republican and comes from the Napa Valley district where they make wine. He receives cases and cases of wine and grapes from there and gives it away."

"He does, eh? That has nothing to do with your visit."

"Certainly not. He never gives away more than one bottle at a time. But," she added wistfully, "if you wanted him to give a sack would come away with 15 bottles."

Young musicians' point: Say, The City Group M. C. Company refused his patrons' offer of help to practice violin. His patrons made real money with the Four Corners. He took George to a restaurant in London. He was a young Hungarian who was following George. If you wanted you could be playing like him. Said George: "Who, me? No. He's playing while I'm eating."

Gallagher and Sheen eventually had reverses and sang for 60 weeks in the Ziegfeld Follies. He'll sing for 10 years and 100 years. Al has been a very successful actor, singer, comedian in scores of stage musicals and films. On May 12 and 13 he'll be home in the Plymouth, with Dean Jagger in his last role. THE SURRENDER OF W. D.

(A Complete Short Story)
By VANESSA BROWN

WARREN DELMORE winced, and picked up the receiver. "Put her on," he said to his secretary before she had time to announce his wife. He listened in for a while, and then said, impatiently, "Well, Luba, it's one of those things. That can't be helped, I mean. I'll be running the old flicker for the camera crew from 7 till about 9— Now, don't spout it over and over again. I said I couldn't. Why don't you go with someone else? . . . Well, stay home then, it's okay with me. 'By."

"How the woman has deteriorated," he said to himself, almost aloud, replacing the receiver. "Someone ought to tell her that tears never yet—"

Warren looked at the clock on his desk, and swiftly reached for the telephone again. "Look, Faithful," he said to his secretary, "when Catherine . . . when Miss Catherine McBraid comes, let her in here at once. And keep the phone to yourself. I've cleared everything that's of any importance for the afternoon."

With a swift tangent glance at the mirror over the mantelpiece Warren took in his thinning hair, the narrow eyes in the broad face, the strong nose, and the compact figure in the loose light-brown cardigan.

Aware of his nervousness, he stopped buttoning and unbuttoning his jacket. Instead, he rearranged the two club chairs and piled up the books and papers on his huge desk, putting the script Catherine was coming to fetch at the bottom of the pile.

Suddenly the telephone rang again, and Faithful said, "Miss Catherine McBraid wants to speak to you."

"Well, didn't I tell you—" "Miss McBraid is on the phone, sir," the secretary said pointedly.

THE LOVELY GIRL WHO STAYED AWAY

"On the phone? . . . Well, then, put her through quick," said Warren. "Hello, Catherine, what on earth happened? Where are you?"

"At the airport. I had an urgent call an hour or so ago, and must go up to San Francisco for a few days. I couldn't cancel our . . . I couldn't cancel our appointment sooner. Please forgive me."

Although shy and halting now, Catherine's voice at the far end of the wire had the same fervid tremor which had first arrested Warren, some two weeks ago, at the Academy Classic.

"Surely," said Warren. "Certainly. I'm glad it's nothing more serious than that." It did not occur to him that for the first time in his life he was contented with little. He asked her to give him a ring as soon as she came back, said twice he wished he'd be there, and blabbered on and on, all the while struggling for ease and the nonchalance.

With the drop of the receiver, though, an emptiness came over Warren. At once he realized how intensely he had been waiting for the girl to come. Was he falling in stupid, humorless, adolescent love?

He poured himself a tall Kirsholm and then another, but the dull gnawing feeling did not leave him. He stepped out into the waiting room, gave his secretary a few brief instructions, and left the office almost on the run.

The ride to Santa Barbara did him some good. He felt able to turn in at a quiet little place and order a strong hot tea with rum. He sat on for an hour, thinking of nothing, just looking out at the sea. Chilly and foggy, dusk leaped forth from nowhere, and began gobbling up space and light and life. As though fearing for his own existence, Warren pulled down the shade on his movie window.

It was then that he heard the fervid tremulous laughter bursting into the tiny entry. He did not want to be jumped up from his seat.

Her long white and thin with faint, clinging to the rim of the heavy box beside her, Catherine McBraid stopped dead in her track.

"Oh," she said with trembling lips. "I'm sorry, Mr. Delmore. It so happens, oh, excuse me, may I intrude?"

"Introduce?" Me? Don't be silly, Kate," said the spunky young fellow, who seemed to be talking too much even with his mouth shut.

"I once worked for Mr. Delmore. By the by, Mr. Delmore, I hear you're going to re-screen—"

Warren paid no attention. He bowed somewhat awkwardly, theatrically, stepped out of the cafe, and walked over to the small parking lot in the rear of the building. Sloppily, he stepped out his huge car and started on the long road back toward Santa Monica, groping his way through darkness and fog.

That was that—she had lied. Just as he had lied to Luba.

His hands gripping the wheel, his eyes staring at the road, Warren, almost against his will, drove on through layers and layers of deep and darkness.

Yet there was a difference—there was no meanness or cowardice behind Catherine's lie—she had lied out of pity—she pitied him—

And then there was, swelling up from the cellar of his soul, the last and final knowledge: Ever since he had met Catherine he had anticipated this ludicrous outcome. He had anticipated defeat.

Oh, of course, in a way, he was a potent hombre—he could pick up anyone from the dust and raise her to the stars, but for all that he was an old man on the downgrade—

A sudden panic seized Warren Delmore. He was afraid of his own thoughts, afraid of the darkness, of being alone. He looked up from the road, recognized Malibu Beach, and pulled up at a gas station.

WARREN MAKES SUDDEN DECISION

The attendant, a fair-haired lad in stained and worn khakis, had a pleasant, easy-going way. He filled up the tank for Warren and poured two quarts of oil into the engine. Then he said, tentatively, wiping a streak of caked dust off the plate, "You wouldn't care for a quick wash, sir, would you?"

"Go ahead, wash her," said Warren Delmore, and his tired hollow voice made the attendant look up his way. Clumsily, Warren heaved himself out of the car, and glanced around. The lights, the friendly presence of another man, he braced and warmed him. The tinge of collapse in his broad face began to fade.

After a long rumination, the station attendant said, by way of comfort, "Nice to be getting back home after a rough trip."

Warren neither agreed nor disagreed. Maybe he didn't listen at all.

Maybe his mind withdrew again into the misery and confusion within himself.

All of a sudden he said, "Got a phone number here?"

"Oh, yes, sir," said the attendant, helpfully. "Right there, in the office."

Warren went to the office,

"I've given up looking for an ideal man—NOW I'm looking for a husband."

dialed the operator, and placed a toll call.

"It's me, Lublitchki," he said to his wife. "Your courtin' escort. Believe it as it seems. But I'm starved. I'd like to dine first. Just the two of us—anywhere you wish—Chasen's suits me fine—oh, but I do prefer it to any other place, it's so much cheasier." Warren took a deep breath, bent over closer to the mouthpiece, and said, pathetically, "Hustle, I'll pick you up before you can say 'daring' again."

 "I LIKE WORKING IN THE RESTAURANT INDUSTRY

because

It is my vocation, and the job for which I am best qualified... because I like serving people and working with and for the public. I enjoy the co-operation of the employees and our mutual respect one for the other. The warm, friendly atmosphere of the restaurant pleases me. Life is always interesting in a restaurant; there is no slump of boredom in this work. I like the consideration given us by executives who handle problems kindly and justly, whether they are general or personal. The working hours are arranged so that individuals may have opportunities to work when it is most profitable for them.

Being a woman, I am interested in looking well, and the uniforms and aprons, crisp and well-tailored, permit me to look attractive while on duty.

Like most people I enjoy being "on the ball"... and in this industry, that quality is a definite requirement. Food is necessary to life, and eating is one of the finest of human pleasures... so, in addition to being proud that the food I serve is delicious and well presented, I am glad that I have the privilege of also enjoying that food which is prepared and served under the best possible sanitary conditions, by men and women who know their job."

EVERYWHERE YOU GO these days, the boys are singing, "I don't want her, you can have her, she's too fat for me." Or haven't you heard this significant little ditty that's swept the barber-shop quartet talent with as much... if you can call it so... musical gusto as "Sweet A Little Bit of Sugar?"

It can't be better timed for our purposes... to serve as proof positive of how the boys feel about the girls with plenty of girth and weight greatness. Certainly the tune isn't world-shaking. It must be the lyrics. Since there is more truth than poetry in the tune... don't YOU be the one they dismiss in musical gesture "she's too fat for me!"

THE RIGHT FOOD

But how could you be if you've been pursuing this safe and sane routine of weight reduction? You are a veteran dieter by now.

New! Unusual!

Dismissing a platter of delectable food and trays of French pastries with nary a quivering nostril should be old hat to you as proudly you behold the figure change, note the tip of the scales and remain firm in your intention to follow through until you've reached the weight normal for you.

When you do... there is no further need to continue this diet routine. But don't go back to a whole-hog regime again. Don't be like the patient who was told by the doctor to take one pill every three hours until the pills were gone... decided to take them all at once to save time.

A gradual return to a fuller eating routine... if you find it necessary... is best. But before the week is out we'll take care of the kind of a life you lead and the food you must have to actively fit with a blueprint schedule for planning meals.

Most all of us fall into the categories... those who lead fairly still lives, those who are moderately active and those who are very active and do laborious work. And we'll schedule simple menus accordingly... light, medium and heavy.

DIET CAN BE REPEATED

However if you are still overweight... which means you still have fat to spare, and get up with ease and no physical discomfort... you can repeat this 28 day NEW LOOK DIET from the start until the scale hand-drops to the figure that is your beauty mark. This diet is not lacking in any essential... hence it may be repeated over and over and over again.

You can pick it up at any later date and subscribe to it. So don't toss it away when you've tossed away the unwanted pounds. It is a pretty precious document to any girl who likes an indented waistline, a flat diaphragm, slim thighs and shoulder blades sleek and trim.

BLUEPRINT FOR EATING

Once you've learned the art of following a diet high in protein value... because protein cyclizes metabolism and burns the calories faster leaving no residue in the system to be stored away as excess fat and subsequent poundage... you've really learned how to eat well and wisely. But one can't live on proteins alone. Hence the necessary skeleton outline of the basic eating habits which will give you before the very end.

Are you an office worker? Do you want to avoid "stenographer's spread"? Is your day spent mostly in sitting and typing or filing or taking dictation?

In tomorrow's Boston American, we'll blueprint an eating plan for your kind of activity which will maintain slimmest for you.

His Eyes Wander

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:
I am 20 years of age and am deeply in love with a young man of 26. He says that I am the only one he truly loves and wants me to marry him. He is a very kind, considerate and understanding person, but he has one fault that greatly troubles me. Whenever we are together, he has to notice and admire every female who comes into view.

Now I have never made an issue of this, but I get very hurt and humiliated when he calls my attention to the women and still says it is I whom he loves and wants. On the other hand, he doesn't flirt with them. Should I tell him how he is hurting me, or should I just break off with him and try to forget him, as I am afraid I will lose my trust in him, which I believe is essential to a happy marriage. "PUZZLED".
Dear "Puzzled":

Don't you think you are perhaps making a mountain out of a molehill? Most men enjoy looking at other women, even though they may be sincerely devoted to one alone. It is just one of those masculine indiscretions which no sensible woman takes too seriously.

So once you say he doesn't attempt to flirt with them, I would hardly think that you have any serious competitors. My advice to you is to ride along with this while and see if you can't take it more lightly.

The Correct Thing

By ELINOR AMES

GOOD MIXER? When you accept an invitation you incur an obligation to help make the party a success. One who makes no attempt to mingle and converse with other guests is discourteous to the hostess.

WHAT NEXT? Right now we refuse to make predictions... but suffice it to say... there's an exciting new kind of cosmetic to assure us that wonders have not yet ceased in the cosmetic world. One of the most newly disclosed beauty secrets is a perfumed nail lacquer which colors the fingertips (six beautiful shades) and simultaneously perfumes them for a hand expression medium that really reaches new beauty heights.

Perfumed Nail Lacquer Tops in Good Grooming

WHEN WE SAY YOU are going to be a perfumed lady to the tips of your fingers... we are not kidding. Wonders haven't ceased... not in the cosmetic world their fingernails. So these cosmetic chemists set to work on one that would not only be elegant to the eye... but most delightful to the sense of smell. Years of work went into research... far never before had anyone successfully mastered the art of imprisoning essential perfume oils in a nail color.

COMES IN SIX COLORS

The result of this intensive labor and great skill is this new perfumed nail lacquer... unique in the world of good grooming. And there's something magical about it. At the outset... as you spread its liquid color over the nails for even flow of beauty (it literally glides on to present a smooth, glossy, nail surface)... the perfume escapes you.

But as it dries... which is almost instantly... the perfume magically appears and you whiff it cheerily. It will linger on the nails for, at least, 24 hours in spite of hand washings and other round-the-clock activities. What a gesture for a big moment... what a dramatic play to use the hands expressively for the dramatic interest all the while its subtle yet enchantingly, arrestingly and evident perfume dominates the scene.

This is an exciting new something which tickles our fancy... how about yours? And it comes in six delicious and sensorily delightful colors, plus transparent.—R. M.

For the name of this beauty-news-making perfumed nail lacquer, phone the Beauty Dept., Liberty 2-4000 any day except Sunday, or write to Ruth Mugglebee, care of the Boston American, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Let's Eat

BY IDA BAILEY ALLEN

THE CHEF HAD just finished rinsing the fish fillets with salted water and was putting them in a large glass dish.

"For tomorrow's dinner," he asked, "shall we have these fillets sautéed, broiled or baked?"

"Let's have fish goulash," I suggested.

The Chef looked surprised.

"And why not?" I went on.

"Fish is an alternate to meat, and it can be cooked by any method used for meat. We have meat goulash, why not fish goulash?"

LIKE HUNGARIAN GOULASH

"Why not?" echoed the Chef, getting enthusiastic. "We can take our fish fillets, cut them in nice square pieces, just as we do the meat, and cook with a little onion and tomato, a trace of garlic for the special flavor and plenty of paprika for the eye appeal, just as we do in the Hungarian goulash."

"And let's cook the potatoes with it," I went on.

"Excellent!" agreed the Chef. "I will simmer it all nice and slow, so the flavors will blend. We will have a dish incompatible, and at the same time a new recipe for cooking any kind of boned fish."

"There are lots of canned string beans on the market," I mused. "Suppose we sauté them slightly. That gives them such an appetizing taste. And they will be so good with the goulash."

A NICE COMBINATION

"That will be a very nice combination," said the Chef. "Now what do you suggest for a good dessert with this meal?"

"Of course, a fish dinner almost demands a fruit dessert," I pointed out.

"What about the wonderful canned clingstone peaches I see in the market?" queried the Chef. "They are plentiful and down in price. With a little lemon juice, they would, as you say, fill the bill."

And so for dessert we decided on old-fashioned peach shortcake made a new-fashioned way.

FISH GOULASH

Cut up 1½ lb. fillets or boned fish of any kind into 2-in. dice. In a kettle or heavy saucepan melt 3 tbsp. butter or margarine; add the fish and 1 large peeled sliced onion; sauté slowly till both are golden brown. Then add 1 tsp. salt, 1 tsp. paprika and ½ c. tomato juice. Put in 6 small peeled and quartered potatoes. Cover and simmer until the potatoes are done, about 20 min. If necessary, add a little more tomato juice. However, when served, the liquid should be largely evaporated.

STRING BEANS SAUTÉ

Drain 1 can string beans. (Save liquid for soup stock or vegetable cocktail.) In a small heavy frying pan melt 1 tsp. butter or margarine, or use salad oil. Add 1 tsp. minced onion if desired, or 1 small peeled section of garlic. Fry until beginning to turn color. Then add the string beans. Season further with pepper and a very little salt, and sauté slowly until the beans begin to turn color, about 4 min. Remove garlic before serving.

PEACH SHORTCAKE

Sift together 2 c. all-purpose flour, 4 tsp. baking powder, ½ tsp. salt and 1 tsp. sugar. Add 4 tbsp. shortening (any kind), and chop it in with a pastry blender. Then mix in ¾ c. of the juice drained from a can of peaches. Turn onto a slightly floured board; divide in two portions. Pat one portion into an oiled 9-in. layer cake pan. (Dip your hand in flour, or the dough will be sticky.) Brush with a little melted butter or margarine. Pat the second portion of dough on top of this. Bake in a hot oven, 400 F., about 18 min. To put shortcake together, separate the two layers. Cover bottom layer with sliced canned peaches, flavored with a little lemon juice, and slightly sweetened. Turn top layer upside down. Place it over bottom layer; cover with a neat layer made of the peaches. Serve warm with top cream or whipped peach sauce.

Whipped Peach Sauce: Stir 2 tbsp. margarine until soft and creamy. Add 1 egg yolk, the juice and grated rind of ¼ lemon, and a few grains salt. Then add alternately 1 c. sifted confectioner's sugar, and ½ c. canned peach pulp, rubbed through a sieve. Last, whip the egg white stiff and stir it in.

Hostess' Favorite Recipe

By MARTHA LEE

MRS. LOUISA P. SKILTON, Nutrition Director of the American Red Cross, Boston Metropolitan Chapter, has a favorite dish called "Scallops en Casserole," which she serves for "company meals." She says that a lime float makes a good beginning for such a meal, and likes for other accompaniments, French fried potato balls, carrots julienne, and a mixed green salad with chiffonade dressing. Alternate accompaniments could be asparagus spears, broiled tomato slices, and a salad of grapefruit sections with transparent dressing. Cornmeal crisps or whole-wheat Parker House rolls go well, too. And for dessert, glazed strawberry tarts or coffee.

SCALLOPS EN CASSEROLE

1½ lbs. scallops
2 cups dried bread crumbs
¼ cup butter
Salt and pepper
Parsley, minced
¼ cup butter, melted
Look over the scallops to be sure no bits of shell remain; if large, slice scallops crosswise. Arrange scallops and crumbs in alternate layers in a shallow baking dish, dotting each layer with bits of butter and adding salt, pepper and minced parsley. Top with the remaining crumbs mixed with the melted butter. Bake in a moderate oven (350 deg. F.) for 45 minutes and serve garnished with sprigs of parsley. Makes 4 servings.

PAGING Mrs. Sherlock Holmes! Capes, which most women adore because of their sophisticated swagger, are pretty and plentiful for spring... reaching to many lengths and suiting many tastes. Gershel does a beauty in Forstmann's smooth midly blue "ormino" lined with bright red taffeta for the fashion swish that's swank this season. Pastillion in cut... with shorter shoulder-length capelet over a longer, buttoned-front cape... this has all the jut and swing of the beloved short toppler while giving a new type of wrap to those of you who like a change from the usual. Here it is worn with a 12-inches-from-the-floor straight skirt... but it is equally chic with one of the new bias-cut ones which shapes up to bell-like hem.—RUTH MUGGLEBEE.

Invite Husband

DEAR MRS. BECKMAN:

After our wedding ceremony, we are not to have a reception—only a small dinner to which the members of the two families and several close relatives are to be invited. Among the close relatives are an aunt and an uncle (on the bride's side) and their married daughter. Should her husband be included in the invitation?

D. L.

Yes; since the bride's cousin is being invited, the cousin's husband must also be invited.

Good Sense, Comfort Mark Country Clothes

By EILEEN CALLAHAN

COUNTRY STYLE clothes are as satisfying as country style meals—plain, hearty ingredients mixed with good sense and full of solid comfort. The best clothes for wear in the country may have been designed in the glittering atmosphere of a New York City dress salon but any similarity to big city sophistication ends right there.

Good clothes are always right for their environment. Tweeds, knits and fine woolsens will always be right for the country and the suburbs. Lines that fit the figure, yet allow for free movement, colors that offer quiet contrast without being startling, are necessary attributes of country clothes.

The suit sketched today, designed by Knize, has a short, fitted jacket of black and white check and a black wool circular skirt. The jacket has black knitted sleeves. Black wool applique defines the small waistline and makes the notched collar.

per cent of the estimated gross product of the nation. That it will amount to 16 per cent, if production keeps up, if we are as prosperous as we have been. In 1919, the expenditures of the government amounted to 9.8 per cent of the estimated gross national product.

In 1913, the total expenditures of Government amounted to $9,297,000,000; in 1947, they amounted to $12,505,000,000; in 1948, $37,728,000,000; in 1949, they are to be $39,669,000,000. We shall be spending more than four times as much in 1949 as in 1940. This, of course, includes the cost of the war, which we are now and shall be for years paying off.

Even taking into consideration the lower purchasing value of the dollar, does the individual American have the money to spend? For it is he who spends it, out of his earnings. Every dollar of it comes out of his earnings, sooner or later.

PRESIDENT TRUMAN and Treas. Sec. John Snyder take the position that they have to have that $3,000,000,000 no matter where it comes from. If the Congress wishes to take some off one place it must be back on somewhere else. Hand everybody $40, as a sop, and sop it onto the price of goods by requiring business to pay it.

Mr. Sander admits that his surplus is only to be around $7,000 ($6,000), but then the Marshall Plan will, at about that. Give the surplus away, but do not, under any circumstance, permit any American to keep more of his own earnings.

There is a bit of war psychology in all this—too much of it for the country's good. The administration wants money for elbow room. Do you understand either the philosophy or the arithmetic of this? Probably not. You do not alone—our reporters do not understand it. The testimony before Congressional committees indicates

Next we turn to subsidies. A subsidy is a tax on the whole paper, or a tax on part of a paper. In the case of a tax on the whole paper, the tax is paid by the publisher. In the case of a tax on part of a paper, the tax is paid by the subscriber.

THE PROPOSAL might be a more radical approach than previous ones, pointing to the fact that it is based on a "higher" subsidiary average for "lower" prices. But it also means higher taxes. What is the difference between a company that for your business is the only store or more for your need, and through taxes? This is going to be hard to understand.

There is a theory going the rounds that business can afford an increased tax because of higher than usual profits. The assumption is that American business is so strong, so vibrant.

As a result, the compensation has ness of the United States is owned by approximately 15,000,000 Americans to say nothing of the partnerships and small store and shop owners. Besides, much of American business is owned indirectly by mutual savings banks and life insurance companies that hold mortgages on buildings and land.

In a word, taxing American business is placing an additional burden on the American people, on the earnings of a huge number of individual Americans, the actual owners of these businesses. Congress might investigate the number of enterprises that changed hands during the past five years because taking a capital gain or loss is more profitable than earning a profit! The silliness of this idea is only equal to the silliness of the concept. Why should a man sell his business but continue in its management?

They do it every day. This country needs more production and every incentive for more production is taken away from possible investors of capital. In fact, if these high taxes continue, the number of investors will constantly decrease, only those with inherited wealth having any reservoirs of capital.

Whoever talks about increased production and increased taxation produces an unreal paradox. Give the American people a chance to use their own earnings and they will expand as they always have in the past.

But the first essential is to cut taxes—and to cut them way back

Smart Set College Benefit

By BETTY ALDEN
IN THE HUB'S musical and social world a visiting Symphony Orchestra always causes a stir of excitement. This will be especially so next Sunday afternoon when the Minneapolis Symphony, conducted by Dimitri Mitropoulos, will give a concert at Symphony Hall to benefit Anatolia College.

This will be the orchestra's first appearance here and the only concert this season by a visiting orchestra. Anatolia College, at Salonica, Greece, was chartered under Massachusetts laws by a group of Boston missionaries and has many friends among distinguished Bostonians.

Among the many planning to attend the concert are Mrs. Ralph Bradley, Mrs. Fanny P. Mason, Miss Mary H. Buckingham, Mr. Henry B. Cabot, Dr. and Mrs. John T. Williams, Rev. Henry Francis Smith, Miss S. Emma Keith, Hon. and Mrs. Channing Cox, Mrs. Francis J. Flagg, Miss Sarah Wambough, Mrs. Robert Tuck, Miss and Mrs. Alfred Emerson, Mrs. Frank Fowler and Mrs. Richard C. Lilobson.

AS A PLEASANT change from climbing over snowdrifts and nestling in fur coats, Mrs. E. Pump to Heat 7-Room Home From Earth or Tap Now Ready

CLEVELAND, Jan. 26 (AP)—An electric "heat pump" designed to heat a seven-room house in winter by extracting warmth from the earth or from ordinary tap water went on public display today at the refrigeration and air conditioning exposition.

The machine, scarcely larger than a home refrigerator, was built by a St. Louis firm. Two other units are in use on a test basis for company service men, and line production would start this spring. The estimated selling price was not given.

The pump will draw heat from ordinary tap water, although when installed in the basement of a house the heat would be drawn from the ground through tubing buried five to 15 feet below the surface.

Earth temperature in Cleveland, only a few feet down, stays at about 52 degrees and the machine extracts this heat, boosts it by compression and releases it in a way refrigerator draws heat from the food compartment and releases it outside the box.

In summer the machine could be reversed to pump heat from

Happy Though Wed Formula Revealed

Somewhere beyond the magic of lovers' dreams, science at last has found a realistic formula to test your chances of living happily ever after in marriage.

Dr. Ernest W. Burgess, professor of sociology at the University of Chicago, recently completed a 10-year study of 1000 couples and has discovered an answer to that age-old question:

"How can we know that our love will last?"

If you're married or planning to be married, be sure to read the findings of Dr. Burgess in the article, "Will Your Marriage Last?" in next Sunday's American Weekly, magazine issued with the Boston Sunday Advertiser.

Million$ Daily Betting Mark Is Seerat Hialeah

By JACK CONWAY

MORTIMER MAHONY, director of the huge mutual department at Hialeah Park, has a few optimistic words to say about the turf sport.

"I believe the daily average mutual handle for the present Hialeah Park meeting will top $1,000,000," said Mahony. "Despite cold weather, Hialeah Park has almost averaged that amount so far this meeting."

"There are some people who claim that the track benefits when it is cold as people are unable to go bathing and so take in the races. This may be true in some instances, but I will take the warm weather and take a chance on enough people getting to the race track to keep the mutual machines humming. When it is cold, there are many persons who remain indoors."

"The cold and snow in the North and West will cause thousands of people to come to Florida for the remainder of the winter. The prices of hotel rooms and apartments in some cases have been reduced and this will help, too."

I gained this information during a talk over the long distance telephone with Tom Shehan, right eye to Everett Clay in the publicity department at the Florida track.

"What was the daily average mutual handle at Gulfstream Park?" I asked Tom.

"It hit $600,000 after a slow start," he replied. "Horace Wade, Jimmy Donn's assistant at Gulfstream, has been at the track each afternoon. He has his own racing stable here and it is doing all right."

"I just left Whitey Wilson over in the paddock where he is watching the two-year-olds get saddled. Whitey leads all handicappers when it comes to picking winners of two-year-old races."

Winners and Warm Weather Will Help

DAVE KOMIE is around each day, and his followers are happy since he gave them Nowadays which won to pay $40. I understand this was Komie's top horse in the Green Sports Special of the Boston American. A few winners and some warm weather are all folks need down here to make them happy."

Things I saw and heard which I did not get around to writing about until now . . . Former Atty. Gen. Paul Dever, one of the most eligible bachelors in the State, eating alone at a second floor table at Dinty Moore's in New York . . . Paul appeared to be contented with the world, and he is very happy to be enjoying excellent health . . . "I shall be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor," said Dever. "I do not know whether former Gov. Tobin, with whom I have always been friendly, will oppose me."

James A. Farley, former Postmaster General, asking me to give his best wishes to his friends in Boston as he hurried to join his daughter, a recent bride and a Wellesley College graduate, at dinner . . . Farley still retains his interest in boxing despite the fact the game has slipped a long way since he directed it as chairman of the New York Athletic Commission . . . Farley knows human nature, and the ways of the people who chisel into the boxing game and knows how to deal with them. Eddie Egan never gained that kind of knowledge while studying Chaucer at Oxford.

George R. Canty Gets Post in Bern

GEORGE R. CANTY, formerly of Boston, a career officer in the State Department, and Mrs. Canty in New York for a visit with their son, George, a student at Fordham, before sailing for Europe on Tuesday . . . Canty will act as economic officer at the American embassy at Bern, Switzerland . . . State Department considered assigning Canty as consul general in Czechoslovakia, but reconsidered and sent this ace international trouble shooter to Bern.

Canty was in Amsterdam as American consul when The Netherlands was invaded by Germany in May, 1939, and he remained there for 15 months while country was under German occupation . . . He served in Berlin from 1932-1935 during which time Hitler came into power and witnessed transformation of peace-time to Nazi controlled Germany . . . He has just completed four-year assignment in State Department and helped American moving picture industry get millions of dollars which had been frozen in foreign countries . . . France and China were latest countries to release millions in cash for American films they pur-

PADS FOR PETE

NEW YORK, Jan. 26 (INS) —They say anything can happen in Brooklyn and in line with that idea came the announcement today that the Dodgers plan to give "Plunging Pete" Reiser the padded-cell treatment at Ebbets Field this year.

This brash young man, who has been ricocheting from Brooklyn's outfield fences into various hospitals for several years, will be protected against himself by a shock-absorbing layer of foam rubber. It will be used to a height of 10 feet on the fences in left and center field at an estimated cost of $5000.

Right field presents no problem to "Plunging Pete," having an inclined wall which leans away from the noggin—no matter how accurately it may be aimed.

Report AHA Six Barred

ST. MORITZ, Switzerland, Jan. 25 (AP)—A usually reliable informant said today members of the International Olympic Committee had told the Swiss they must ban the United States Amateur Hockey Ass'n team from the winter games.

The AHA squad has been recognized by the Swiss organizing committee as the official U. S. representative in the games—an action strongly protested by the U. S. Olympic Committee, which has entered its own team.

If the AHA is barred, indications are that the International Hockey Federation may order all its teams out of the competition. This would be a hard blow to the box office-conscious Swiss, since hockey is the big money sport of the games. Some 60,000 fans are counted on to watch the semifinals and finals.

The Swiss have put new pressure on the Americans to reach a compromise, but apparently to no avail.

"There is no sense in talking compromise," declared J. Lyman Bingham, an official of the U. S. Olympic delegation. "We can't make new rules now."

The informant who described the action of IOC members said it was his understanding that the upshot of the hockey controversy will be banning of both the AHA and U. S. Olympic teams from the competition.

The executive committee of the IOC meets Jan. 27-28 and the full committee meeting will be held Jan. 29, just one day before launching of the fifth winter games at this Alpine resort.

While the hockey controversy rages, other athletes are going through final rehearsals for the competition. Americans made a surprisingly good showing in the ski events. Fifteen-year-old Andrea Mead of Rutland, Vt., won the Alpine combined trophy after taking first in the downhill competition and tying for 11th in the slalom.

Barney McLean of Denver, Col., won the men's Alpine combined with first in the downhill and third in the slalom.

AWAIT ARRIVAL

ST. MORITZ, Switzerland (INS)—The snow-clad town of St. Moritz, scene of the winter Olympic Games beginning Friday, eagerly awaited the arrival of Avery Brundage, president of the American Olympic committee.

Brundage will decide whether the United States will compete in the winter games. Until he arrives, no move can be made to unravel the tangle of which team will represent the Americans in the ice hockey tournament.

The matter is extremely complicated. One team, representing the Amateur Athletic Union, is recognized by the American Olympic Committee but not by the International Ice Hockey Federation. The other, sponsored by the Amateur Hockey Association, is supported by the International Federation.

Cesario 7-5 Favorite

It will take more than an ordinary howling blizzard to keep the fight fans away from the Boston Garden tonight. For tonight, at five bucks a copy for ringside pews, the local boxing fans, can see what shapes up as one of the finest boxing cards of the entire year. Four main bouts are jammed into one evening.

Headline attraction is the N. E. welterweight championship match, 12 rounds, between Johnny Cesario, North End, and Bobby Zales, Providence. The overnight price rate, Cesario at 7-5.

The other three bouts are all 10 rounders. For potential swirling action they rate with the headline. The participants are as follows: Gus Melli, Montreal, vs. Charlie Fusari, Irvington, N. J.; Tippy Larkin, Garfield, N. J. vs. Joe DeMartino, New York; and Jackie Weber, Pawtucket, vs. Spider Armstrong, Toronto.

Larkin is an 8-5 choice to top DeMartino. Weber is a 7-5 nod over Armstrong. Fusari is rated 6-5 over Gus Melli.

Melli, a lightweight, may be the boy to upset the early choice. Melli has put on weight and his punch is packing more impetus. Joe DeMartino showed white-knocking out Marty Servo, ex-welterweight king, that he is to be feared. Larkin is a great boxer but has an Achilles' heel. Spider Armstrong, reputed to be 38 years of age, has had over 300 bouts and knows more than Weber. His knowledge may keep pace with Weber's legs.

'SUGAR' BOUT OFF

TOLEDO, O. (AP)—Illness of Ray (Sugar) Robinson, welterweight champion, caused postponement of his 10-round fight with Ossie (Buildup) Harris of Pittsburgh here Tuesday.

40 BOYLSTON ST., BOSTON, MASS.

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN, MONDAY, JAN. 26, 1948

Wilhelm Junker, the current senior Eastern States men's figure skating champion, has been added to the glittering specialty program for the 13th Annual Record-American - Advertiser Silver Skates Derby which will be held at the Boston Garden on Sunday afternoon.

Wilhelm is also rated in the top bracket of men skaters throughout the United States. He is well over six feet and will add much power to the Derby figure skating program. Junker, from Dorchester, is attending the Mass School of Pharmacy.

Audrey Planty, English figure skating champion, had her first American practice session at the Arena yesterday afternoon. Audrey arrived on the Queen Elizabeth on Friday and was escorted to Boston by Paul Brown, manager of the Boston Arena.

Audrey lives in Birmingham, England. She is 21, pretty and talented. The Silver Skates Derby is her first American performance. The lovely English lady passed up an Olympic bid in order to come to the United States and perform in the Silver Skates Derby and other great ice shows.

The figure skating program has been rounded out. Other specialists will include: Audra McLaughlin, New York star; Alex Hurd, Olympic record holder; Jane Weiss, Walpole; Wiffy Conway, Marion Murphy, Dorothy Dillon, Rosemary Crowley and Tenley A. Albright, all of Newton.

Robert Thompson, the veteran American Quarter Horse racing official, sent more than 250 young spectators through their paces during a Derby racing session. "There's still plenty of good seats left for the Silver Skaters Derby," said Tommy Waters, director of the Garden-Arena box offices. Tommy reports a record sale but stresses the point that many seats in best locations are still in the box offices. Go get 'em while they're still there!

Derby tickets sell for 35 cents, 50 cents and $1. They may also be purchased at Brine's on Summer st.

All skaters entered in the Silver Skates Derby—808 of them—will be mailed postal card instructions regarding when and where to report for the Derby. The instructions will be in the mail by Wednesday night.

The 35-pound weights, broad jump and pole vaulting will be scheduled across the Charles River campus, while the track events are open to 7:30 p.m. The following events will be held: 60-yard dash, 60-yard relay, 100-yard run, 1 mile, 3 miles, 5 miles, 6.6-mile sand pit, and 100-yard sprint. The NCAAA will fund a trophy to the school or coach of a team winning the most points. The top 10 boys and spring athletes will be an honor.

Letters may be filed with chairman, Ralph Olson, 24 Holmfield ave., Mattapan, 26. The list will be closed Sunday, Feb. 1.

The Arlington High basketball team will go to Woburn Tuesday afternoon to play Woburn High in a non-league game.

The travel-weary Celtics will enjoy a day of rest in preparation for their Garden engagement with Joe Fulks and the Philadelphia Warriors tomorrow night.

At the end of the Warrior-Celts game, Boston will have completed a stretch that has seen them in action four times in six days with two sleeper jumps included. They opened the long run against the same team, Philadelphia, that they will close it with.

To date Boston has played the Warriors five times and have won four. Only loss to the Warriors came on the Celtics' opening night in Boston when they dropped an overtime tilt.

The high-scoring Fulks will have a couple of new mates to top an tomorrow night. The new Hank Beenders and Bob O'Brien. Beenders is no stranger to the Boston public who have seen him in Providence regimentals. He is now in the league. He came to Philadelphia from the Southern League where he averaged 11 points per game. He played his college ball at Pepperdine College in California and was selected on the Little All-American. Both Beenders and O'Brien stand 6-4.

Dutch Garfinkel becomes eligible to play for the Celtics tonight after sitting out five games. Garfinkel has been out with an injured knee and was placed on the inactive list. Either Jack Hewson or Gene Stump will sit this one out, if Garfinkel is in condition to play.

As a preliminary to the Celtic-Winnor contest, Mission of Roxbury will meet Cathedral in a game that will tap away at 7:30 p. m. The feature contest will start at 9 p. m.

PRINCETON (AP)—Joe Cushman, Fitchburg High School, won the State Junior Downhill ski championship over the seventeights of a mile course on Mount Wachusett in a sanctioned meet sponsored by the Worcester Ski Club.

ASS'N BASKETBALL
St. Louis 72, Boston 54.

Late January is apt to be a dull period in college hockey when mid-year examinations take precedence over athletics, but the coming week will be anything but dull as it brings Boston University vs. Dartmouth tonight.

TONIGHT AT ARENA

Preceded by a New England League contest between New Hampshire and Northeastern at 7 p. m., the champions go on the ice at 9 p. m. with very possibly the mythical Eastern crown at stake. The high-stepping Terriers are New England League champions, while Dartmouth is the American Intercollegiate and National A.A.U. titlist and co-holder, with Toronto, of the international crown.

Both teams come down to this game with one defeat on their respective records. Dartmouth having been upset by Boston University's chief ice rival, Boston College, and the Terriers having lost a 6-5 overtime decision at Hanover to tonight's opponent.

The game probably means more to the Terriers than the Indians, but the big Green will certainly lose prestige if it succumbs to the Back Bay sextet. The Dartmouth cause is not aided by the departure of Joey Riley and its starting defense pair, George Pulliam and Crawford "Whitey" Campbell, on the A. A. U. "Olympic" junket to St. Moritz. For Boston University a golden opportunity looms as the Terriers, having already gained verdicts over Harvard and Yale, need only a Dartmouth triumph to complete the feat set forth in the B. U. sextet of defeating the Blue, Crimson and Green in a single season.

The opening contest of the doubleheader should also be a good game as the Huskies won over the Wildcats at Durham by a narrow margin two weeks ago. Northeastern should gain a slightly more decisive edge on its home ice. New Hampshire makes its first appearance here this season with four Bay Staters—Paul Briand of Cambridge, Bob Keith of Waltham, Bill Forbes of Newton and George Saunders of Stoneham in the starting line-up.

MELBOURNE, Jan. 26 (AP)—John Treloar, Australia's crack sprinter, set an Australian 220-yard dash record of 20.9 seconds today, defeating John Bartram of Victoria and Herb McKenley of Jamaica, formerly of Boston College.

Making his third unsuccessful attempt to win an Australian title, McKenley finished two yards behind Bartram, in third position. Reolar defeated Bartram by two yards.

The same pair defeated McKenley in the 100-yard dash and Bartram headed the Jamaican in 100 yards Saturday.

DETROIT (AP)—Don Morrison scored in the last six minutes to give the Detroit Red Wings a 1-0 victory over the Montreal Canadiens before 13,656 fans here last night.

Morrison's tally was loudly protested by the Montreal players. He lined a shot out from in back of the nets, but it hit Bill Durnan on the ankle and fell between his feet. When Durnan dropped blindly to cover the area, he pushed the puck just over the goal line.

Durnan and Glen Harmon both claimed that the puck, however, never had entered the goal.

Defending champion Malden Catholic set itself up as an odds-on favorite to retain the crown this season as it waltzed to a sparkling 3 to 1 triumph over St. Mary's of Waltham in the top game on a Catholic Hockey League card played at the Arena last night.

Malden's Art Wheeler, the leading schoolboy scorer, ran his total to an impressive 23 points when he accounted for the opening goal.

St. Mary's of Lynn broke in the win column for the first time this season by handing Christopher Columbus a 3 to 1 setback. St. Mary's experienced little difficulty keeping the North Enders in check. The scoring was equally divided between Bill Nangle, Bob Melanson and Rob Burningham.

St. Clement's of Somerville had to combat a determined third period bid as they edged Central Catholic 3 to 2. St. Clement's held a three point advantage entering the final chapter, when Central came to life and accounted for a pair of credits. Husky Paul Colbert led the Orange and Yellow attack with a brace of goals.

Four Jeterman Andy McAuliffe turned in the "hat trick" as St. Sebastian's posted an easy 7 to 0 triumph at the expense of St. Patrick's, Stoneham.

Bruins Now in Position For Drive to Play-offs

By BILL GRIMES

One week ago, the Bruins were in fifth place in the NHL race. Today, they are deadlocked for third place with the Rangers, on whom they slapped a 6 to 4 defeat last night.

"I'd say, we are over the 'hump,'" declared Coach "Dit" Clapper after last night's game. "But, I hope you notice that I have my fingers crossed. That's to put the 'hex' on the injury jinx, which has caused all of our trouble and, also, to shake off the old 'Whammy'."

We had some very tough sledding while Schmiddy and the 'Squire' were on the injured list. We have no less than six rookies on our roster. Count 'em: Eddie Sandford, Fernie Flamon, Clare Martin, Wally Wilson, Ed Harrison and Pete Banando. When you have that many kids on any club, you must have veterans to steady them, or you cannot win.

"All of our rookies fully appreciate Schmidt's and Crawford's hockey ability. They are thrilled to be affiliated with such top grade stars. The forwards watch every move that 'Schmiddy' makes on the ice. And, the defensemen seldom take their eyes off Crawford. They are observant kids."

"They have acquired considerable savvy from their observations. Moreover, they have confidence when they know that their idols are either on the ice or waiting their turns."

"I saw that the rookies tightened, without Schmidt and Crawford. But, I knew their reactions were natural. It was nothing more serious than that the added pressure was to much for them to absorb. They lacked the experience to take up the slack."

"But, don't get me wrong. They did a grand job. Without a single exception and every one of them are fixtures in the NHL. They showed flashes of greatness. Within a couple of years, they will he great, for they have natural ability and plenty of courage.

"Since the first of the year, we have gradually been climbing back to where we belong. To the spot, which we wouldn't have vacated but for the fact that we lost Milt Schmidt and Jack Crawford. And, I've seen enough of the Bruins' Leafs and Red Wings to know that they haven't anything on us, just so long as we are at top strength physically. So, if we have shaken off the injury jinx, we'll be the team to beat for the Stanley Cup, and I'm not kidding."

There isn't any question but that Coach Clapper's statement is logical. During the last 10 days of the old year, the Bruins lost five games in a row, while carrying on without Milt Schmidt and Jack Crawford. But, in their last nine starts, they have chalked up four victories and three ties against only two losses. And it will be to bear in mind that neither Schmidt nor Crawford have been in top form. Just as soon as these stars hit their peaks, the Bruins definitely will go places.

Five of the Bruins picked up two points last night, namely, Woody Dumart, who scored two goals, "Sandy" Sandford, Ed Harrison, Jimmy Peters and Milt Schmidt and Pat Egan, Billy Taylor and Clare Martin added one point to their totals.

Bruins' Sign on N. Y. Rangers Amazes Coach Frank Boucher

Coach Frank Boucher cannot figure out why his Rangers fall apart at the seams when they play the Bruins. He frankly admits the Boston and Chicago teams have the timers in the lobby of the Manger before the game. The veterans were Frank and "Buck" Boucher, Cooney Weiland, Frank "King" Clancy and "Bun" Cook, coach of the Cleveland Barons.

Earl Torgeson, the Braves' first baseman, saw his first NHL game with "Red" Marsten. "Torgy" enjoyed the fray, but admitted that he wants no part of hockey from a player's angle.

Prior to this week-end, the Red Wings and Canadiens had divided the points equally in six games, two wins, two losses and two ties but then the Detroiters went out and took both ends of a home and home series.

On two occasions in the second period, Pete Banando tried to take the puck out via the front of the Boston cage. But, he didn't make it on either try. It's a wonder that "Brimmy" didn't crown him.

'Highest Paid Pro Coach', McKeever

CHICAGO, Jan. 26 (AP)—Youthful Ed McKeever, football's nomad who has coached at five different schools in a dozen years, declared today that his three-year contract as new skipper of the Chicago Rockets "makes me the highest paid coach in professional football."

"What is more," he beamed, "The money covering the three years is in the bank."

McKeever's statement, made in San Francisco, indicates he will be drawing upwards of $25,000 per season and probably more from the Rockets' new backers, who so far have not been revealed.

When Paul Brown of the Cleveland Browns signed a contract during the war it called for an announced $25,000 base salary and was thought to be about tops among the pros. hat other cut, if any, McKeever will get in addition to his pay, is unknown. Brown received an estimated $90,000 in salary, bonuses and retainers during his two years of turning out the champions of the All-America conference.

The Detroit Lions' new owners recently were reported to have offered Frank Leahy $35,000 annually to win him from Notre Dame, which he refused.

The 37-year-old Texas Tech graduate, who resigned from the University of San Francisco after leading the school to its best season in history with seven wins and three losses, became the third pilot of the hapless Rockets which have been a financial bust in their two years of operation.

The club, bucking the Chicago Bears and Cardinals of the rival National Football League for Chicago patronage, went into the hole in the 1946 regime of Coach Dick Hanley, ex-Northwestern mentor who lasted half a season, and dropped an estimated $250,000 in winning only one of 14 league games under "Sleepy" Jim Crowley in 1947.

The well-heeled syndicate trying to fan the Rockets back to life with greenbacks, is expected to be disclosed before the all-America Conference, which now holds the franchise, convenes for its annual winter meeting in Chicago, Feb. 14. The go-between in dealings thus far has been R. E. (Slim) Gann, Chicago bond broker acting for the league.

Gann as well as McKeever had contract talks with Notre Dame's Johnny Lujack, but the all-America quarterback, voted the athlete of the year, Saturday signed with the Chicago Bears for about $18,000-$20,000 per season and a $5000 bonus.

McKeever, who has held coaching positions at exas Tech, Boston College, Notre Dame, Cornell and San Francisco, helped develop Lujack when he was assistant to Leahy at Notre Dame and later head Irish coach when Leahy entered the Navy. Bit despite this "personal tie" Lujack passed up a sensational offer by inking with

—but I was lucky."

Winner of the second place trophy, John Puglia, lives in Salisbury, he is a self taught skier, and was very surprised at his showing in competition.

The youngest contestant was 11-year-old Arthur Thorne, of the Emerson School, Exeter, N. H., whose dad is the well known ski pro of Franconia, N. H. This boy will bear watching.

The course was set by Edward Gould, Jr., president of the Amesbury Snow Flakes Ski Club. Everyone found it to be a fair run, although tricky, and testing in spots. A couple of flushes and a tight hairpin caused some of the boys to churn up the powder as they spilled.

Due to the fact that 20 clubs and schools were represented in the slalom, the competition was the keenest ever.

QUICK CHRISTIES: Mr. and Mrs. Michael J. Foley, of Malden, parents of the former Walter Foley, together with friends and members of the family, arrived by bus just in time for the start of the event. In their group were seven entrants, members of the Massachusetts Ski Club of Malden.

Poor Russ Harris, of Norwich University, suffered an unfortunate accident while warming up for the race, running the point of a ski pole into his leg. Members of the Salem Ski Busters administered immediate first aid. Ed McMahon, of Lowell, broke his skis during a trial run, but managed to borrow another pair for the race.

Lined Up to Shovel

For B. & M.

Here's a section of a line of men which extended down Warren ave. to Causeway st., then stretched out between two buildings. The men are after snow-shoveling jobs, offered by the Boston & Maine and paying $1 an hour.

Fruitless

With the temperature hovering just above zero, two divers have struck the water while two more prepare to take off into New York's Hudson river in effort to recover crucifix tossed into the ice-covered stream by Abp. Arsenios Saltas of the Greek Orthodox Church. Ceremony commemorates baptism of Christ. For the first time in 20 years the swimmers were unable to locate the cross.
